

KEEPING SPORTS IN PERSPECTIVE

HON. EDOLPHUS TOWNS

OF NEW YORK

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, May 15, 2008

Mr. TOWNS. Madam Speaker, I would like to share with my colleagues an excellent May 13th article by Steve Politi of The Star Ledger entitled "Spygate Shouldn't Concern Congress." It emphasizes the importance of Congress remaining focused on critical national issues such as the economy, healthcare, education and the war.

[From the Star-Ledger, May 13, 2008]

SPYGATE SHOULDN'T CONCERN CONGRESS
(By Steve Politi)

If Congress really wanted to make a difference in our lives, it could hold hearings on how to make our most annoying sports storylines go away. Start with the endless debate over Joba Chamberlain and his eighth-inning celebrations, then move to Roger Clemens' creepy personal life.

Then, and only then, should Washington tackle "Spygate," which has dragged on through an entire season and has the legs to make it to training camp. No matter what Roger Goodell declares today after meeting with fired Patriots video assistant Matt Walsh, the NFL commissioner can't get rid of this one himself.

Arlen Specter will see to that. The Pennsylvania senator plans to meet with Walsh this afternoon, and it's hard to believe he'll emerge from their conversation and tell the world that the matter is settled. Which means, sometime in the near future, Bill Belichick could be packing his hoodie for a trip to Washington and another unnecessary sports-related hearing.

Specter is another politician who has figured out that the quickest path to easy publicity—and to getting noticed by his football-loving constituency—is to take on a sports issue. Why settle for C-SPAN when you can get on ESPN and a few hundred sports radio stations, too?

Congress can make an impact on a sports issue occasionally, as it did with steroids in baseball. Without those early hearings, Major League Baseball would have continued to take its time cleaning up the sport and Mark McGwire might have a bust in Coopers-town.

But what, exactly, would society gain from a hearing into the Spygate mess? Is it to set an example for kids who might steal signals at their Pop Warner games? To distract us from rising gas prices, the struggling economy and the million or so more important issues?

"Congress has a legitimate reason to conduct hearings on any number of issues in sports," said Stephen Ross, director of Penn State's Institute for Sports Law Policy. "The question is, what are they looking at? Steroids is a legitimate public problem. Whether a mass on Roger Clemens' butt is evidence of steroid use is not."

Specter insisted recently that "we have a right to have honest football games," but the Founding Fathers must have forgotten to include that with life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. NFL games should be fair, of course, but the responsibility for keeping them that way belongs to the NFL.

Goodell fined Belichick, who was caught taping signals at the season opener against the Jets last fall, $500,000 and docked the team a draft pick. He should have suspended Belichick, too, to send a message that even the league's most successful coach is not above the rules.

But Goodell is the one who should make that decision. Walsh apparently will arrive at the NFL offices in New York today without a smoking gun—reports from February that Walsh had taped the St. Louis Rams' walk-through before the 2002 Super Bowl were false.

Walsh did turn over eight tapes made from 2000 to 2002, which further confirms what we already know: Belichick is a cheater. He has been scolded and embarrassed, his legacy as a coach tarnished forever. Do another eight examples make it more tarnished?

No one can ever say for sure what impact taping signals had on the Patriots dynasty. The answer is probably more than the NFL wants to admit, and less than the posse chasing after Belichick with the torches thinks. Dragging the coach and commissioner to Capitol Hill won't clear up a thing.

"If the sole focus of the hearing is, 'What did Belichick do and when did he do it?' I agree it's hard to see the need," Ross said. "Whether it becomes the football equivalent of a discussion of Tom Cruise and Katie Holmes, well, that remains to be seen."

It is hard to believe that Specter's motives are pure. Beyond the usual grandstanding for the cameras, his secondlargest political contributor is Comcast, which is battling the NFL over fees for the NFL Network. Tops on the list? Comcast's Washington lobbying firm.

Soaring cable bills! Now there's a good topic for a Congressional hearing. We love a good conspiracy, but the only way Spygate resembles Watergate is how long it has dominated the news. Bill Belichick is not Richard Nixon. He shouldn't be heading to Washington.

HONORING PFC WILBUR J. (WEB)
FENBERT FOR BEING NAMED 2008
VETERAN OF THE YEAR

HON. JIM JORDAN

OF OHIO

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, May 15, 2008

Mr. JORDAN of Ohio. Madam Speaker, I am honored to commend to the House the distinguished service of PFC Wilbur J. (Web) Fenbert to the United States of America during World War II. PFC Fenbert will receive Veteran of the Year honors at an Armed Forces Day celebration breakfast this weekend.

During his time in the military, Web served in the 4th Armored Division which was the spearhead of the 3rd Army as it pushed into German territory. Web was an ambulance driver and moved casualties to field hospitals. In 1944, on Christmas Day, his division moved into Bastogne, and casualties had to be evacuated to the field hospital in Chaumont. Web bravely made seven trips through German artillery shell fire as he carried 22 wounded soldiers to the hospital.

Web's closest call was in a combat offensive called Task Force Baum while involved in a mission to liberate the concentration camp at Hanneburg, Germany. The camp was sixty miles behind German lines. Web picked up five casualties from a battle at Schweinhaim and took them back to the field hospital. Once there, he was ordered not to return. Although the Task Force reached Hanneburg, they ran into a Panzer Division on their return. All Task Force members were either killed or taken as prisoners of war.

Web has many war memories. One is of seeing General Patton and General Eisenhower directing traffic at a crossroads outside Bastogne. Another memory is of liberating POW camps such as Moosburg. He said that Buchenwald was the worst. Web said, "I'll never forget the stench or the heinous scene." Web was also at Foshenbroke, Germany, where General Patton was killed, and he attended the funeral.

At the end of the war, Web turned in his ambulance which had 29 shell holes and said, "I wasn't even scratched."

RECOGNIZING THE ACHIEVEMENTS AND ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF J.
MICHAEL DURNIL DURING HIS TENURE AT ROOSEVELT UNIVERSITY

HON. DANNY K. DAVIS

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, May 15, 2008

Mr. DAVIS of Illinois. Madam Speaker, I want to take this opportunity to recognize the significant contributions of J. Michael Durnil, Ph.D., to Roosevelt University. Dr. Durnil will leave Roosevelt University, where he has devoted his talents and energies for the last 15 years, for the newly created position of Senior Vice President for GLADD, the Gay and Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation in Los Angeles.

Throughout his career at Roosevelt, Dr. Durnil has been a staunch advocate for students, especially those who are the first in their family to attend Roosevelt, a protector and promoter of the university's image, reputation, and history as an institution of higher education founded on the principles of social justice and academic excellence, and a devoted cheerleader for Roosevelt University at both the Chicago and Schaumburg campuses.

During his time at Roosevelt, Dr. Durnil rose quickly through the ranks, beginning as Dean of Students, serving as the Campus Executive Officer for the Schaumburg campus, and eventually being promoted to Vice President for Administration and Assistant Secretary to the Board of Trustees. In spring 2004, he was honored as an American Council on Education Fellow, a highly prestigious appointment made only to the Nation's top college and university leaders. He spent the next academic year at Fairleigh Dickinson University in New Jersey.

Upon his return in 2005, he was named to the newly created position of Vice President for Governmental Affairs and University Outreach, the position he will leave on May 28, 2008. Making a strong impact from the start, Dr. Durnil oversaw the creation, direction and implementation of strategic activities focused on governmental, community, public and external relations for the university.

Through Dr. Durnil's efforts, Roosevelt University gained national and international recognition as a major sponsor for the 2006 Gay Games, which were hosted by the City of Chicago. From serving as a registration site for the 140,000 participants to hosting a mayoral press conference on campus to providing housing for athletes, Roosevelt University was a major part of this event, thanks to Dr. Durnil. His hard work and penchant for developing productive and solid relationships in Springfield and Washington, DC, has resulted in a strengthened presence and recognition for the university with elected officials.

With deep appreciation and admiration for his efforts, I thank Dr. Durnil for his service to Roosevelt University and the city of Chicago and wish him well in his new endeavors.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, May 15, 2008

Mr. BONNER. Madam Speaker, it is with great pride and pleasure that I rise to honor the long and distinguished career of Julian Smith, on the occasion of his retirement from Alabama Power Company.

With a career spanning over 34 years, Julian rose through the ranks of the Alabama Power Company. Julian joined Alabama Power in 1974 in the construction department at Greene County Steam Plant. Julian assumed his current position, vice president of corporate relations, in 2000.

Julian has been active in Alabama politics his entire adult life. He served as corporate liaison to former Alabama Governor Don Siegelman. In 2001, he was appointed to the Delta Regional Authority as well as the Alabama Commission on Physical Fitness. Julian also served as corporate liaison for the creation of the Alabama Black Belt Community Foundation, leading Alabama Power to partner with Auburn University in their effort to establish a Regional Foundation for the Black Belt.

HONORING LEE HUDSON OF NAPA
COUNTY, CALIFORNIA

HON. MIKE THOMPSON

OF CALIFORNIA

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, May 15, 2008

Mr. THOMPSON of California. Madam Speaker, I rise today to recognize Mr. Lee Hudson, who is being honored by the Napa Valley Grapegrowers as their Grower of the Year on Friday, May 16, 2008. Mr. Hudson is being recognized for his outstanding contributions to the wine grape industry and the larger community of the Napa Valley.

Hudson Vineyards has established itself over the last 25 years as one of the truly great vineyards of the Napa Valley. Mr. Hudson found his love for winemaking early on, receiving his B.S. in Horticulture from the University of Arizona and continuing his education in Viticulture and Enology at the University of California, Davis. Mr. Hudson's dedication and passion to his craft shows in the number of critically acclaimed wines that Hudson Vineyards has produced and continues producing today.

Throughout his career, Lee Hudson has set a lofty standard for farming in the Napa Valley. These high standards are reflected not only in the quality of his fruit and clients, but also in the loyalty of his employees. In recent years, Mr. Hudson has brought significant benefits to some of his field-based employees by offering after-hours English courses and low-cost housing options on the ranch.

Mr. Hudson is a great role model for other growers in the industry through his innovation, progressive farming techniques, and managing vineyards and surrounding land with a "systems approach". This "systems approach" makes Hudson Vineyards stand out among the rest in land stewardship and land conservation. Mr. Hudson sets a tremendous example with his strong advocacy for the preservation of agriculture in the Napa Valley, as well as his active involvement with the Napa Valley Grapegrowers.

Madam Speaker and colleagues, it is appropriate at this time that we thank Mr. Lee Hudson for the incredible work he has done on behalf of the Napa Valley. As a respected grape grower he has advanced the reputation of Napa Valley grapes and wine, and has been a model citizen and superb steward of the land.

NATIONAL PEACE OFFICERS
MEMORIAL DAY

HON. DAVID G. REICHERT

OF WASHINGTON

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, May 15, 2008

Mr. REICHERT. Madam Speaker, Today is National Peace Officers Memorial Day.

Just outside this chamber, are thousands of law enforcement officers, here to honor the fallen.

Freedom is not something we can take for granted. Police officers understand their role in this and take it seriously. For 33 years, I wore the badge of the King County Sheriff's office, and understand the sacrifice, and the pain of losing a partner.

My good friend Mr. POE has a resolution honoring these brave men and women who sacrificed all while protecting our communities and keeping our children safe. The House Oversight and Government Reform Committee passed the resolution on May 1st and yet the Majority has failed to bring it to the floor. Why? The House has honored our peace officers and passed this resolution every year since 1999. This is the first time in 5 years the resolution has failed to come to the floor during National Police Week.

Madam Speaker, on this National Peace Officers Memorial Day, I ask this body to reconsider, and pass the resolution honoring these brave men and women.

TRIBUTE TO MS. CRYSTLE
STEWART, MISS USA 2008

HON. NICK LAMPSON

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Thursday, May 15, 2008

Mr. LAMPSON. Madam Speaker, on April 11, 2008, Crystle Stewart, 26, of Missouri City, Texas was awarded the coveted Miss USA crown. I am honored to recognize her on this tremendous accomplishment.

Miss Stewart graduated from the University of Houston with a degree in consumer science and merchandising and now runs her own company "Inside/Out." This remarkable company aids young women in building self-esteem and volunteers with many organizations in the community. Her ability to juggle academics, her company, and work at a modeling agency is a testament to her amazing discipline and strong desire to succeed.

In the process of obtaining her crown, Miss Stewart made history; she is only the second African-American woman to win the title of Miss Texas and the first in more than a decade. I commend Miss Stewart for being a trailblazer, scholar, and success story to young women throughout the country, and I wish her luck as she competes for the title of Miss Universe in Vietnam this June. I know she will continue to bring pride to the state of Texas and the United States of America.
